GERMANS USE UP RESERVES IN ITALY

SWEDISH WAR PLANTS GO ON U.S. BLACKLIST

FIRMS WARNED TO CEASE TRADING WITH HITLER

BY JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

Washington, May 22 (AP)—Reinforcing the drive to have Sweden cut off ball bearing shipments to Germany, the governments' blacklist committee voted today to add 38 additional Swedish firms to the list of proscribed companies alleged to be assisting the German war effort.

These 38 firms, raising to 426 the total number of Swedish firms on the black list, will not be added technically until publication of the regular blacklist supplement June 2.

Negotiation Not Closed

Normally their names would not have been announced until that date, almost two weeks away, and announcement at this time constituted an extraordinary action by the interdepartmental proclaimed list committee which governs the listing of all concerns.

The name of the SKF Company, Sweden's leading ball bearing manufacturer, does not appear on the list of 38 reported by the committee today and this was interpreted to mean that officials here are still optimistic regarding the outcome of negotiations with the Stockholm government, SKF and other companies directly concerned in the shipments to Germany which the United States, Britain and Russia are trying to have stopped.

Those companies which were named were not identified either as to possible American connection or according to importance or production in Sweden.

America Not Fooling

It was known that there was some apprehension here that Swedish businessmen and officials fail to realize the seriousness with which the United States is pressing current negotiations over ballbearings and other steel items vital to Germany's war effort.

Earlier today, the state department had announced that "no firm has been or will be included in the proclaimed list merely because means of pressure may exist by reason of American connections."

It then listed 11 Swedish companies and their American affiliates which according to previously published reports had been considered for blacklisting and said emphatically that none of those firms "is at the present time under consideration for inclusion in the list."

Japs Caught Napping In Marcus Air Raid

London, May 22 (AP)—A strong United States task force smashed at Marcus Island, Japanese outpost only 1,200 miles from Tokyo, in a two-day assault over the week-end, the Japanese high command announced today, and later broadcasts suggested that the defenders were caught napping by a decoy force feinting from the east while the main attack was delivered from the west.

There has been no Allied announcement of such an attack and the need for radio silence may delay any American version for some days. Tokyo frequently has given the first word of the U. S. Navy's strikes at its island strongholds.

Tokyo declared 132 carrier based planes attacked in seven waves Saturday and Sunday, asserted 32 of them were shot down and acknowledged only "negligible damage."

The main striking force may have sailed much closer to Tokyo than Marcus, 1,200 miles away.

The Japanese communique said it "appeared in the waters east of the Ogasawara (Bonin) islands." The Bonins are only 600 miles from Tokyo and well to the west of the Marcus, suggesting that the main blow was delivered by a fleet that had steamed close to the Bonins and approached the target from the west.

Suggesting Japanese surprise, a Domei broadcast said "while our units were keeping close watch over the activities of enemy squadrons in the Marshall islands waters," west of Marcus, "enemy naval forces appeared east of the Bonin islands" to launch the attacks.

"What requires our attention at this points is the fact that the enemy, relying upon his numerical strength and speed, stealthily sneaks around us and tries to attack us suddenly from the flanks."

The broadcast said the U. S. naval command organizes a reserve fleet, another is set up as a decoy unit, and the "two units take different routes. As soon as this decoy unit is discovered" and attacked, the reserve force strikes, it added.

Marcus island was attacked previously by American fleet units in March, 1942, and again in September, 1943. In the latter attack, Admiral Chester W. Nimitz estimated that 80 per cent of Japanese military installations were destroyed by an aircraft carrier task force commanded by Rear Admiral Charles A. Pownall, while American losses were two fighters and one torpedo plane.

TEXAS DIVIDED OVER 4TH TERM

Republicans Can't Agree On Dewey; One Group Prefers Bricker

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The fourth term bandwagon is due to hit a bit of a bump in politically turbulent Texas today but at this stage President Roosevelt himself is the only one who can overturn the very smooth-riding vehicle.

The Democratic state convention at Austin brings together these clashing causes: (1) Fourth termers; (2) anti-fourth termers; (3) those who want the state organization to take no part whatever in the national convention.

Texas Republicans also are far from agreed as they convene to name their delegates to the big show in Chicago next month. Some of them favor Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York, who has piled up a big lead with 357 presidential nomination votes, while others prefer Gov. John W. Bricker of Ohio, who has campaigned through Texas and who is Dewey's closest contender with 62 pledged or claimed delegates.

Largely as a result of the fourth term quarrel, Democratic leaders in Texas looked for an uninstructed delegation to carry the state's 48 votes to the national convention. Many counties instructed their their state convention delegates to support Speaker Sam Rayburn of Texas for the vice presidential nomination.

FLOOD SWEEPS THROUGH IOWA

Five Days Of Tornadoes Bring 10 Deaths; End Over Week Away

Des Moines, May 22 (AP)—The worst floods in 40 years swept through central and southeastern Iowa today and the weather bureau said the end was still more than a week away.

The tenth death in five days of tornadoes and floods was reported but not definitely established. An eye-witness told police at Ottumwa he "saw a man go under the water and not come up" in the waterworks power plant race shortly before noon. The witness could not identify the man but police began dragging the area for the body.

Five persons died Thursday and Friday and four drowned yesterday.

Damage has been occurring so rapidly there has been no opportunity for a state-wide estimate of the loss, but the storms have covered a belt equal to more than half the area of the state and extending from the northwest to the southeast.

SATURDAY POPPY DAY

Lansing, May 22. (AP)—Governor Kelly today proclaimed Saturday, May 27, as Poppy Day in Michigan, urging the public to buy poppies for the relief of all wars and among servicemen of all wars and their dependents.

CHRYSLER UNION IS REPRIMANDED

President Of CIO Tells Strikers To Get Back To Work

Detroit, May 22 (AP)—International officers of the United Automobile Workers (CIO) cracked down today on strikers whose picket lines kept an estimated 11,500 Chrysler Corp. employes idle for a seventh working day despite a back-to-work order from the union itself.

R. J. Thomas, UAW-CIO president, went over the heads of the officers of the local with which the strikers are affiliated to order a special back-to-work meeting of rank-and-file members tomorrow night.

"Your jobs and your union are at stake," Thomas warned in urging 100-per cent attendance.

He also summoned officers of Chrysler Local 490 to appear before an emergency session of the international union's executive board Wednesday "with facts and witnesses" concerning the strike.

Seven Chrysler plants have been effected by the dispute, which began with the discharge of two union stewards and 14 other Chrysler employes for ejecting an AFL truck driver from delivering soft drinks to the Chrysler Highland Park plant for a bottling works whose CIO employes were engaged in a jurisdictional strike.

The strike spread to four other Chrysler plants, and lack of parts made 5,000 in two other plants idle.

ALLIES MAKE FINAL LUNGE AT MYITKYINA

BURMA BECOMING SEA OF MUD AS MONSOON HITS

BY CHARLES A. GRUMICH

Southeast Asia Headquarters, Kandy, Ceylon, May 22. (AP)—Heavy monsoon rains breaking suddenly over north Burma have transformed the battleground at the encircled Japanese stronghold of Myitkyina into a slogging sea of mud, but as the allies prepared for the final assault on the city, already one-third captured, Chinese troops stabbed to the north and seized a strategic road junction, it was announced today.

The bloodiest fighting of the entire north Burma campaign was developing inside the city where allied troops smashed at the enemy garrison street by street, house by house, a front dispatch from Associated Press Correspondent Thoburn Wiant said.

Communications Cut Off

The rains were causing a delay in the battle for the city, he said, reporting that a strategic railway station occupied by a Chinese column yesterday had changed hands several times, and the situation was confused throughout the town.

With the capture of the junction of roads fanning to the north and west, Lt. Joseph W. Stilwell's forces have established a firm line on an arc four miles northwest of the city, from Charpate to Namkwi, blocking the enemy's Burma railway and road communications between Myitkyina and Mogaung to the west and Fort Hertz, far to the north, a headquarters communique said.

Chinese troops were reported to have established a solid line northwest of the city, blocking Japanese attempts to relieve the hard-pressed garrison and tightening the allied hold on a likely escape route. Other Chinese, who drove down the Mogaung valley, crushed five enemy strong points, and east of the Mogaung River the Chinese broke up a strong Japanese attack aimed at reinforcing troops trapped at the little mountain village of Warong.

Reinforcements Flown In

While the monsoon rains slowed ground operations, the troop carrier command's Dakotas were reported flying reinforcements steadily and on schedule into the firmly held, all-weather air strip south of Myitkyina.

Before the heaviest rains set in, American bombers and fighters struck at enemy positions and dumps in the Kamaing-Mogaung-Myitkyina sector Saturday, pre-

Kiel Submarine Base Is Blasted

BY W. W HERCHER

London, Tuesday, May 22 (AP)—DNB said a great air battle was raging over Europe early today between Allied bombers and Nazi night fighters and claimed 25 four-engine planes were shot down at the outset.

The action, indicating the RAF was keeping up a round-the-clock assault on fortress Europe, came after a strike by perhaps 3,000 bombers and fighters by daylight yesterday at the German submarine base at Kiel, at Pas de Calais and at wide-spread targets in occupied France and Belgium.

The German broadcast, recorded by Reuters, said Nazi night fighters had shot down 25 four-engine bombers in the first 15 minutes of battle and the aerial struggle still was raging at 2:25 a. m.

DNB did not identify specific targets, but various broadcasts said bombers were over central Germany and the greater Berlin area, and that heavy anti-aircraft fire was heard in northwest and western Germany.

About 2,000 United States bombers and fighters made the daylight attacks upon Kiel and Pas de Calais. These followed up an RAF saturation raid Sunday night on industrial Duisburg.

Five bombers and eight fighters failed to return from these twin daylight missions, which brought to more than 17,000 tons the amount of bombs poured on shaken Europe in the last four days of aerial softening for the invasion. The RAF dropped 2,240 tons on often-bombed Duisburg alone.

In all, about 3,000 sorties (single flights) were flown against Germany and occupied countries from British bases during the day and about 4,500 tons of high explosives and incendiaries were dropped.

Other squadrons swept out from Britain late in the afternoon to continue the pounding of ground defenses, engaging enemy aircraft over their own fields, and strafing locomotives, trains and railroad bridges in enemy-occupied Belgium.

NAZI MASSACRE DETAILS BARED

Prison Camp Slaughter Described In Sweden By Eye-Witnesses

London, Tuesday, May 23 (AP)—A Stockholm dispatch to the Daily Express said today a detailed account of the killing in March of 47 British and Allied prisoners of war by the Nazis showed the "massacre x x x did not take place in a clash between prisoners and guards, but was carried out by groups of guards who lost their heads and shot prisoners haphazardly in barracks, courtyards and workshops."

The Daily Express correspondent, B. D. Masterman, said British pilots who escaped and reached Sweden gave eye-witness accounts of the affair on which an official report, based on their ments, is expected within a few days.

"I understand it will be one of the most shocking stories of the war," he wrote.

Masterman wrote that he had learned the witnesses "most emphatically refute the German allegation that the prisoners were shot when rushing toward gates which they tried to force." Sand said neither inquiry nor trial preceded the killings.

"The shootings lasted several days," he added, "although most of the officers were shot march 23 x x x.

"They were apparently due to breakdown of German discipline and morale. Witnesses state: 'During the past months most of the guards at Stalagluft III (German prison camp) behaved like lunatics.'"

YANK PATROLS THROWN BACK AT TERRACINA

CLIMACTIC BATTLE RAGES ON ROAD TO ROME

BY EDWARD KENNEDY

Allied Headquarters, Naples, May 22 (AP)—The German high command threw all the reserves at its immediate disposal into a desperate counteroffensive against the Allied advance today and succeeded in driving the vanguard of American forces out of Terracina, coastal gateway to the Pontine plain 88 miles from Rome.

Fierce fighting raged along the entire front as the last of the 17 Nazi divisions (perhaps 170,000 men) below Rome and immediately north of the Italian capital entered what may prove the climatic struggle for Italy. An Allied spokesman declared the enemy had "nothing left in reserve south of Rome."

Piedimonte Mopped Up

American patrols entered Terracina yesterday almost without a fight and it appeared the Germans were in full flight along the coastal sector, but the force of today's counterattack caused the Yanks to withdraw from the town and take up positions 2½ to 3 miles to the northeast, on the road to Fondi.

Inland, however, American troops were reported continuing their advance through the mountains, while the Canadians pierced barbed wire entanglements in front of Pontecorvo, bastion of the Hitler line in the Liri valley southwest of Cassino. The Poles slugged into Piedimonte, four miles west of Cassino, and were reported mopping up the town.

French troops took, lost and then recaptured Monte Leucio, four miles west of Pontecorvo on the road to Pico, and brought Pico under heavy attack. Pontecorvo and Pico are principal strongholds of the Hitler line where it crosses the Liri valley. An American assault southwest of Pico was being fiercely resisted, front dispatches said, the Germans having thrown the crack 26th armored division into the fighting in that sector.

Nazi Divisions Crippled

Of the 17 Nazi divisions now committed to opposing the powerful Allied offensive and to holding the Anzio beachhead, several already have been badly depleted and disorganized, an Allied spokesman said. He reported that Allied losses had been "considerable" in the 11-day push, but said they were not too high for the results achieved and the extreme losses inflicted upon the Germans.

In a daring stab today, American patrols on the right flank of the beachhead near Littoria pushed five miles into the enemy's lines—toward a juncture with Yank forces in the Terracina area. The enemy's counter-blow at Terracina itself was foreshadowed by dispatches earlier in the day say-

INVASION AREA SENT MESSAGE

Eisenhower Asks People To Be Ready To Help Allied Forces

BY WILLIAM SMITH WHITE

London, May 22. (AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's invasion headquarters today broadcast a second time to the waiting, listening European underground, supplying detailed instructions on how it could guide the invaders over strange and difficult terrain.

At the same time an enemy broadcast, presenting the biggest estimate the axis has voiced on the allies' British-based strength, declared Eisenhower had 3,500,000 troops "ready for an invasion jump" from south England. The German commentator Von Olberg warned Germans to prepare for blows on the east front and in the Balkans as well as from across the channel. He speculated upon Portugal as a possible allied landing point, and said several divisions might parachute behind the German lines extended along the continent's rim.

A spokesman for Gen. Eisenhower told the Europeans waiting for the day of liberation that the allied forces would need precise details of roads, bridges, rivers, woods and possible landing fields.

During the day thousands of passengers missed their trains at London stations when many schedules were cancelled without without warning.

British industry was summoned to its "greatest task," the supplying of replacements for invasion arms. Sir Miles Thomas, vice chairman of the Nuffield organizations, told a conference that industry must be prepared to provide the equipment "to meet grievous losses—demands which will come with an argency never before known."

Adrian May Have Bath Rations Next

Adrian, Mich., May 22 (AP)—Bath rationing may be next for Adrian. Currently short one-fourth its normal water supply.

H. E. Smith, city waterworks superintendent, issued a public appeal to residents of the city to reduce their water consumption when an electric motor which has been pumping 600,000 gallons of water daily from a deep well burned out. It will take a week to repair the motor, Smith said, and in the meantime he wants to maintain a water supply that will be adequate for emergencies.

Captured Wakde Air Strip Now In Use By Americans

Advanced Allied Headquarters, New Guinea, Tuesday, May 23. (AP)—The air strip on captured Wakde Island has been put into use by the allies, Gen. Douglas MacArthur reported today. This puts allied airpower 110 miles toward the Philippines from Hollandia.

The Wakde airdrome was in operation 48 hours after the Sixth army invasion Thursday.

Dogs Quarantined In 18 Counties To Stamp Out Rabies

Lansing, May 22. (AP)—Charles Figy, state commissioner of agriculture, today imposed a dog quarantine in 18 southern Michigan counties as an antidote to a rising incidence of rabies in that area.

The quarantine, forbidding the free movement of dogs, becomes effective today and continues for 90 days to August 20.

Figy, acting after the state health department had called attention to increasing number of rabies cases, said 183 have been reported from January 1 to mid-April and that new cases were being reported continually. In the first full four months of last year 60 cases were reported, in the same period of 1942 69 cases and in the same period of 1941 79 cases.

Missing Fortress Found With 8 Dead

Colorado Springs, Colo., May 21. (AP) — The bodies of eight men were found yesterday in the charred wreckage of a Flying Fortress in the mountains 30 miles northwest of here, 1st Lt. Frank D. Compagnon of the civil air patrol reported today.

The wreckage was believed to be that of a B-17, based at Clovis, N. Mex., missing since February 6.

Four Sons Perish When Home Burns; Fifth Is Injured

Detroit, May 22. (AP)—Four sons of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Perry burned to death today and another son was burned critically in a fire which swept their Taylor township home.

The dead were Charles, 6, Melvin, 7, Edward, 14, and Leo, 15.

Laverne, 10, who escaped from the brothers' attic bedroom by sliding down a drain pipe, received severe burns on the hands, face and body, and the father also was burned in an attempt to rescue the boys. The parents and their five daughters slept in downstairs bedrooms.

Walkout Delayed At Parke Davis

Detroit, May 22. (AP)—Officials of the United Gas, Coke and Chemical Workers Union (CIO) announced 1,900 employes had voted today to begin their delayed strike tomorrow in the plants of Parke Davis & Co., which manufactures drugs and chemicals.

The vote was taken after day-long negotiations between company and union had failed to attain agreement on disputes over wages and working conditions.

The employes of the company voted Saturday, in a national labor relations board election under the Smith-Connally act, to authorize a strike. A mass meeting yesterday, however, decided to delay strike action 24 hours pending the outcome of negotiations.

The case already has been certified to the war labor board.

A B-26 BASE IN ENGLAND, May 23, (by wireless)—Lieut. Bill Collins, who goes by the name of Chief, is what is known as a "hot pilot."

He used to be a fighter pilot, and he handles his Marauder bomber as though it were a fighter. He is daring, and everybody calls him a "character," but his crew has a fanatical faith in him.

PYLE

Chief is addicted to violent evasive action when they're in flak, and the boys like that because it makes them harder to hit. They've had flak through the plane and within a foot of them, but none of them has been wounded.

When they finished their allotted number of missions—which used to give them an automatic trip to America, but doesn't any more—Chief buzzed the home field in celebration of their achievement.

He got that old B-26 wound up in a steep glide, came booming down at the runway, leveled off a foot above the ground and went screaming across the field at 250 miles an hour—only a foot above the ground all the way. And at the same time he had to shoot out all the red flares he had in the plane. They say it looked like a Christmas tree flying down the runway.

Chief used to be a clerk with the Aetna Life Insurance Co. back in his home town of Hartford, Conn. He is 25 now and doesn't know whether he will go back to the insurance job or not after the war. He says it depends on how much they offer him.

Lieut. Jack Arnold is the one they call Red Dog. He is only 22, although he seems much older to me. He enlisted in the Army almost four years ago, when he was just out of high school. He was an infantryman for a year and a half before he finally went to bombardier school and got

Lull On Red Front Continues; Germans Are Kept Guessing

London, May 22 (AP)—The lull on the eastern front continued into the second month today while the Germans, trying to guess all the places where the vast double-squeeze might be applied, predicted a flare-up soon in the south.

Moscow, contributing to the war of nerves, merely said the Red army was ready with much improved weapons for the finish fight.

Reports from the German frontier reaching Czech sources in London said the entire Carpathian zone of Slovakia now was occupied by German troops.

FISH TUG RAISED

Saugatuck, Mich., May 22 (AP)—The fishing tug Gotham, which sank with five persons aboard during a heavy storm Dec. 11, has been raised from the harbor bottom and towed into port. Three of the bodies floated ashore several months after the ill-fated craft sank as it approached the harbor. The other two bodies have not been recovered.

YOUTH CENTERS ARE DESCRIBED

Projects At Menominee, Columbia And Sault Are Discussed

Youth centers in various cities was the topic of reports submitted by members of the boys and girls work committee at the meeting of the Kiwanis club at the Sherman hotel yesterday noon. John J. Bartella was chairman of the discussion program.

A. V. Aronson, chairman of the committee, reviewed the work done by his group in studying the problem of providing a recreational center for teen-age boys and girls in the city. He told of conferences held with other service clubs, students and the Youth Guidance Council. He reported that the Salvation Army had offered the use of the former USO Service Men's Center, and that the committee had also investigated the possibilities of using the Eagles hall and other buildings.

"The boys and girls want a center that will be run by the youths themselves, with a minimum of guidance from adults," Aronson stated. At the present time, a students group is drawing up plans for the administration of a recreational center to be presented later to the Youth Guidance Council.

Capt. Milton Anderson of the Salvation Army reported that Sault Ste. Marie established a youth center to take care of the juvenile delinquency problem arising from the stationing of a large number of troops in the Lock City. He pointed out that Sault Ste. Marie had no recreation department like Escanaba's, and that a community group, after a study of the situation, raised $7,000 to engage the services of an outside recreation director and set up a youth center. An average of 500 boys and girls attended the center, Capt. Anderson added.

Ted Baldwin presented information on the D. A. R. Boys club in Menominee, which has a membership of 750 boys and is financed with funds from the Wells estate, D. A. R. and Menominee board of education. The club has a five-day weekly program, offering Friday night dancing, and the use of library, woodworking, billiards, game rooms and other facilities.

The successful Teen Town of Columbia, Mo., was described by James H. Jackson as a project set up as an experiment in citizenship by the public relations commission of that city. Teen Town has a mayor and other officers for administration of the youth center, and holds elections every three months to maintain interest and distribute the responsibility among the boys and girls. The youths conduct the activities programs in the youth center, with some supervision from the assistant recreational director of the city.

Armstrong Stops Newcomer In Ring

Armstrong weighed 140; Perry, 142½.

About 16,000 customers turned out for the bout.

George H. Gaffney Will Be Graduated From Naval Academy

George Gaffney

The class of 1945, scheduled to graduate on June 7, 1944, is the fifth class to be graduated in less than four years, due to the fact that war conditions reduced the normal four-year course of instruction to three years.

Immediately following graduation, members of the class found to be qualified in all respects will be commissioned as Ensigns in the Line of the Regular Navy and a limited number will be commissioned as Second Lieutenants in the Marine Corps.

Main Goals Achieved

With the latest development—the enemy's desperate gamble to stem the offensive—the Allied campaign could be said already to have achieved its two main goals of engaging a big German army on the southern front and destroying much of it. More than 6,000 Nazi prisoners had been taken and probably an equal number of the enemy killed or wounded.

Prisoners taken from all the German outfits opposing the main offensive tell stories of the terrible effect of Allied artillery fire, which has been of sustained intensity ever since the drive began and has inflicted heavy casualties.

Allied warplanes raked Nazi ground forces all along the battle front and hit bridges, guns, motor transport and gun positions. Eight enemy planes were destroyed yesterday and five Allied craft were missing. Last night Allied bombers attacked ports along the Italian west coast.

Forestry Progam Value Described To Rotarians

The value of the federal forestry program and its place in the protection of a natural resource in the public interest was described to the Escanaba Rotary club yesterday by Paul Wohlen, U. S. Forest Service supervisor, and L. C. Harrison, assistant supervisor.

The timber industry and the conservation of forests today is receiving public attention because of the wartime demand for timber products, Wohlen said. Anther reason for the interest is the conflict between the forest industries and the forest service, which Wohlen said it would be impossible to deny.

Interest of the public is sharpened by controversy over whether there is an adequate timber supply, or whether we are approaching a timber famine. Wohlen pointed out that the closing of two large timber industries in this area in recent months are certainly "not an indication of a surplus of timber." He also cited the fact that there was once in Lower Michigan 25½ million acres of white pine. Now there are but two 40-acre tracts left.

"Federal regulation of the timber industry would require more men to see that these regulations were carried out, but they would not be on the federal payroll," "They would be financed by the private timber operators."

"Those who argue against a larger Forest Service will find that it will grow as a result of clear cutting, and the consequent reversion to public ownership of forest lands which will follow," Wohlen pointed out. "The greater the burden placed on the service, the larger it must become."

He added that the question of greater regulation is a matter of "two different philosophies."

"What the policy will be must be decided by the people. Meanwhile it is the duty of the Forest Service to protect the public interest," Wohlen said.

In a discussion period that followed the program, Wohlen answered questions as follows: Forests will reproduce naturally, but clear cutting will leave long periods of unproductivity; selective cutting, which was described by one questioner as "economically impracticable," has many values, including a constant forest stand providing timber, retaining moisture, and giving the public a recreation area; jack pines are planted on burned over areas because nourishment is gone that would sustain other trees.

"When your timber is gone it is the public which is caught in the squeeze, not the logging operator or the Forest Service," Wohlen pointed out.

L. C. Harrison, presented a paper on the subject which follows in part:

"Wartime demands have served to increase the total drain on our forests by 25 per cent, based on prewar levels.

"It behooves us to glance at the forestry conditions that follows logging and the efforts that are being made to maintain a productive forest enviromnent. Around this point at the present time arises many controversies. It is, I believe, conceded by all who have come in contact with the matter that, as a general rule, the cutting is done without regard for selective logging or sustained yield.

"The welfare of this community, as well as of all others, is certainly bound up with the amount of employment that can be furnished.

"As for Delta county, the basic resource on about 80 per cent of the land is * * * timber and as such is maintainable, or at least a replaceable resource. * * * These must be maintained if our county is to proceed as we have known it before.

"The stand of the United States Forest Service on a national basis is that the country can no longer afford to ignore this problem and that some means must be provided to bring about practices more nearly designed to meet the future needs of the people and national security. In brief it is felt that such a program must:

"1. Provide for protecting forest lands against fire, insect and disease.

"2. Provide for adequate restocking after cutting with trees of desirable species and form.

"3. Prohibit premature or wasteful cutting in young stands.

'4. Provide for reserving a sufficient growing stock of desirable trees to keep the lands reasonably productive.

"5. Prevent avoidable damage to the young growth.

"6. Regulate grazing to prevent damage to tree growth and protect watersheds.

"7. Prohibt clear cutting, except where clear cutting is silviculturally desirable or the land is to be put to some other suitable use."

Burial will be in Lakewood cemetery.

FORD ASSETS LISTED

Boston, May 22. (AP)—The Ford Motor Co., in an annual statement filed today with the Massachusetts tax commissioner stated its assets now aggregate $1,009,092,488 as compared with $813,079,878 a year ago. The statement, which covered the fiscal year ending Dec. 31, 1943, listed a surplus of $669,102,290.

BARGE USES RADIO

Cleveland, May 22 (AP) — The Buckeye Steamship Co. today announced installation of a radio telephone on the barge Smeaton. The short range equipment, believed to be the first for a barge on the Great Lakes, will be used to communicate with the towing steamer, the company said.

Diversion Of Sales Tax Proposed For Amendment Issue

Lansing, May 22. (AP)—The department of state and attorney general today approved the form of three proposed constitutional amendments which proponents seek to place on the November election ballots to divert a third of the state's sales tax revenues to units of local government, prohibit reduction of state grants-in-aid to local government, and prohibit the state from placing of any new burden upon local government without providing the money itself.

Auditor General Vernon J. Brown and State Treasurer D. Hale Brake are on record already with statements that the measures, if approved by the electorate, would require some new form of state tax to offset the losses they would cause.

Walter G. Krapohl, Flint city attorney, obtained the approval as a sequel to a conference of city officials who approved the plan at a conference recently in his city.

Prisoners Implant Nazi Sign At Custer

Fort Custer, Mich., May 22 (AP)—Members of a soil erosion detail at the prisoner of war camp here were found to be firmly implanting the sign of Nazi Germany in Michigan, it was announced today.

Capt. A. T. Etheson, post public relations officer, said that members of the detail, engaged in planting grass seed, were discovered sewing clover seed in the shape of German swastikas at regular intervals on the land where they were working.

The swastikas were from two by two to three by three feet in size, Capt. Etcheson stated. He added that the prisoners involved were immediately placed under guard and ordered to remove the clover insignia, replacing them with grass seed.

Number of the prisoners implicated was not announced by the camp.

Fundamentalist Cult Is Set Back In Court

Salt Lake City, May 22 (AP)—The "Fundamentalist" cult, which believes in plural marriage, received a setback in the courts today when eight men and a woman were convicted of federal charges.

Defense attorneys said they planned to file a motion for a new trial and, in the event it fails, to appeal to higher courts.

The nine, all cult members, were among 46 persons arrested in March by federal and state officers.

Last Saturday, 15 Salt Lake City men, including John Yates Barlow, 70-year-old cult leader, were convicted of state charges of unlawfully cohabitation with 55 women not legally their wives.

Sentencing was set for Thursday.

In both federal and state courts trials were held without juries or witnesses, and in each case the cult members based their defense on freedom of religion, contending they were practicing the original doctrines of the Latter-day Saints (Mormon) church which once advocated plural marriage, but outlawed it in 1890.

ALLIES MAKE FINAL LUNGE AT MYITKYINA

The long-awaited announcement of the union of British Chindits native troops originally under the command of Maj. Gen. Orde C Wingate until he was killed March 24, with Americans and Chinese under Stilwell, came in Lord Mountbatten's order of the day congratulating Stilwell on the capture of the Myitkyina airdrome. Maj. Gen. W. D. A. Lentaigne, in command of the Chindits after Wingate's death in a plane crash, now becomes a subordinate of Gen. Stilwell.

On the Indo-Burma side of the battle for Burma, the Japanese were reported to be facing the prospect of withdrawal now or remaining on the inhospitable mountain and hilltops throughout the monsoon period. But a spokesman admitted it would be difficult to dislodge an enemy scattered over thousands of square miles, and monsoon operations against them probably will be unspectacular.

With Cooking Fats Point-Free, Should I Still Save Used Fats?

"YES!"

—and here's why, says War Food Administration

Lee Marshall
Director of Distribution
War Food Administration

MAKING sure there are enough fats for both your kitchen and the war production machine is one of the responsibilities of the War Food Administration.

After a year in which both cooking and industrial fats were in short supply, the outlook for food fats has improved. This is because farmers have greatly increased their production of oil crops and livestock.

But abundant supplies of industrial fats continue to be needed to meet the increased demands of war production geared for invasion—as well as for civilian requirements.

With more used fats available for industrial use, we will have to divert less of our fresh food fats to war production.

We do not want to take good food fats and use them for non-food industrial purposes if it can be avoided. The conservation of used fats by every homemaker in her own kitchen can help in this situation.

Therefore, we urge American women to save all their used cooking fats and turn them in to their butchers. These fats are vital in the making of such materials as synthetic rubber, parachutes, de-icing fluids for planes, explosives, life-saving medicines, industrial, military and civilian soaps and hundreds of other war necessities.

Increased production has helped give you point-free fats for your kitchen. By saving more used fats you help keep our food fats point-free—and our war machine rolling on to Victory.

Lee Marshall

DIRECTOR OF DISTRIBUTION
WAR FOOD ADMINISTRATION

For every pound of used fat, your butcher will give 4¢ and two red points. And remember, these points are doubly valuable now. So let's save all the used fats we possibly can—and then some more! It's a real contribution to victory that every home can make!

17 MENOMINEE RANGE MINES

All Iron Ore Is Shipped To Furnaces Via Escanaba

At the present time the Menominee iron range of Michigan has 17 active mines, of which 16 are shipping iron ore and one continues as an exploration and in development, according to Skillings' Mining Review. Iron mining is conducted on the Menominee in two counties, Iron and Dickinson.

The Iron River district of Iron county is the greatest center of mining activity on the entire range. Iron mines are located on the north side of the village of Iron River and also on the south side, and contain 12 active mines in all. Crystal Falls, also in Iron county, has one active iron mine, the Tobin. The Book mine at Alpha is also in Iron county. There are 14 active mines in Iron county.

Dickinson County Mining

In Dickinson county, Iron Mountain has two active iron mines, the Cornell and the Bradley, siliceous iron mine pits, Vulcan, Mich., seven miles from Iron Mountain, but also in Dickinson county, is the largest active iron mining center in that county.

The active mine points of Iron River, Crystal Falls, Alpha, Iron Mountain and Vulcan are separated from each other. Since all mines on the Menominee iron range ship their iron ore via the port of Escanaba, the varying rail distances well illustrate how extensively the range's ore tonnage is scattered.

The rail haul from Vulcan to Escanaba is 45 miles, from Iron River to Escanaba 90 miles, from Crystal Falls to Escanaba 85 miles.

There are three active mines in Dickinson county, Penn, Bradley and Cornell.

Nine Companies Active

Nine companies participate in mining iron ore on the Menominee iron range. Five of the nine companies, the M. A. Hanna company, Pickands, Mather & Company, Pittsburgh Coke and Iron Corporation, Inland Steel company, and the Cleveland-Cliffs Iron company are active in the Iron River district, producing iron ore from a total of 12 mines.

Crystal Falls' one active property is the Tobin iron mine, operated by the Republic Steel Corporation. Alpha, located three miles south of Crystal Falls, has one active iron mine, the Book, operated by the North Range Mining company. Iron Mountain has two pit mines, the Bradley mine operated under contract by E. C. Bradley for the Jackson Iron & Steel company, and the Cornell mine operated by the Globe Iron company. Vulcan is the site of the Penn iron ore properties operated by Pickands Mather & Company.

Deepest Shaft on Range

Years ago the Dunn Shaft at Crystal Falls, at 1,818 feet was the deepest in either Iron or Dickinson counties, and therefore the deepest on the Menominee iron range. The Dunn shaft, however, was active only from 1887 to 1915 and ever since an idle property. It was dropped long ago and reverted to the fee owners. Meanwhile shaft sinking has been active at the steady producers, year after year, until now the Hiawatha and the Bates at Iron River have reached a vertical depth of 2,000 feet. The deepest shaft in the Penn mines at Vulcan is 2,300 feet, the deepest point yet reached by man on the Menominee range.

Air Power's War Role Is Analyzed By Childs

BY MARQUIS CHILDS

Washington —The final answer to the air power debate may not come out of this war. Talking with the men directing our air offensive, I've tried to get an idea of just what the picture is today.

M. Childs

It's important to know, if only because with the invasion the objective is likely to change abruptly. Then the mass attacks on Germany will be drastically curtailed because the planes will be needed for coordination with that tremendous push.

To get some idea of the relative value of air power, you have to look at a little recent history. What most of us have not realized is that the air attack on Germany got going in full strength only fairly recently.

In England last summer, I remember talking with Air Marshal Sir Arthur Travers Harris. Harris, one of the firm believers in the capacity of air power to undermine a nation's resistance and one of the picturesque soldiers of this war, was in a gloomy mood.

He made no secret of the reasons for his gloom. At the Casa Blanca conference, a firm commitment had been made to build up the Eighth Air Force to a strength that would enable it to soften up Germany for a final blow. Perhaps even to destroy the German will to resistance. Although the words set down on paper at Casa Blanca were tempered with caution.

To Harris, to General H. Arnold, chief of our own air forces, and to Lieutenant General Ira C. Eaker, then in command of our air in Britain, it looked like a green light. They saw ahead the chance to test their convictions in an all out attack on Hitler's Reich.

High hopes were quickened, especially because it came after so many disappointments. Eaker and six other officers had arrived in England in February of 1942 to direct our bombing units there. They had a difficult pioneering job to do, starting from scratch with the British politely skeptical of the value of daylight bombing.

Shifted to Africa

The spunk and heroism of those pioneers, on the ground and in the air, can hardly be exaggerated. It was building toward something big. They all felt that.

Then came the North African invasion. Crack squadrons were pulled out of England for North Africa. The Eighth Air Force was pretty low after those depredations.

What Harris was saying gloomily last summer was that while the decision had been reached to build air power in Britain to minimum strength for softening Germany, the planes simply were not forthcoming. And he could see no signs that they were about to come.

It was a time, of course, when the pull between the European war and the Pacific war was most acute. Those who felt passionately in the spring of 1943 that we could not allow Japan to sit unmolested and exploit her gains won their point. Air power and sea power were being built up in the Pacific.

Too Early to Judge

In the late summer and early fall of '43 the planes began to reach England. Not, however, until February of this year was the minimum number necessary to do the job actually in operation over Europe.

That is the little known fact which has to be taken into account in any appraisal of the ultimate success or failure of air power. With minimum strength finally achieved, the mass raids of recent weeks became possible. New devices had made accuracy bombing over clouds possible and the Eighth Force executed 16 missions in February, the worst month of the year.

But as Germany failed to crack in the winter of 1943-44, after our efforts superimposed on the long heroic campaign of the Royal Air Force, conservative military men began to say that the air enthusiasts had been proved wrong. They came back from Teheran saying that.

My point is that it's too early to make such a pronouncement—far too early. In a following column I want to try to appraise current air strength in relation to the outcome of the war.

Zephie Nephew, 75, Of Escanaba Dies

Zephie Nephew, 75, died at 10:30 o'clock Monday morning at his home, following a five months' illness.

He was born in Clinton county, New York, on January 1, 1869, and he had lived in Escanaba and in Delta county for the past fifty years. He was employed as a woodsman.

Surviving are four sons and two daughters: Harvey of Rapid River; Mrs. Dewey Miller of Marion, Ind.; Mrs. Lester Noel of Wells; Clem of Rapid River; Albert of Detroit and Norman, who is in the service, stationed at Core Field, Mont.; ten grandchildren and two great grandchildren; and one sister, Mrs. Margaret LaBumbard, of Gladstone.

The body was taken to the Allo funeral home for preparation for burial. Arrangements for the services will be completed today, and will depend on word received from the son in the service.

SCHEDULE TAX MEETING HERE

County, township, City Officials To Gather Here Wednesday

The Delta county tax problem promises to be given a thorough discussion at a meeting of the county tax allocation commission, scheduled for 7:30 p. m. Wednesday in circuit rooms at the court house.

The meeting is called by the tax allocation commission and county, city, township and school officials have been invited to attend. Notices of the meeting have been sent out by County Clerk Theodore Ohlen, clerk of the tax allocation body.

Notices of the meeting inform those invited to attend that there will be a "discussion of valuation, taxation and equalization."

The tax allocation commission is composed of County Treasurer Ralph R. Olsen, chairman; William Warmington, Harold Gasman, Henry Wylie, County School Commissioner C. P. Titus, and H. J. Skogquist of Gladstone.

Supervisors of the townships, of the cities of Escanaba and Gladstone, the city managers of both cities, school superintendents of the two cities, city assessors, and Prosecuting Attorney Torvai E. Strom, have been notified of the meeting.

Purpose of the meeting apparently is a thorough discussion of the present tax revenue difficulties in which the county and the city schools are invilved. The county finance committee recently went on record asking a return of one mill, from the schools, for county purposes. This has been opposed by Supt. John A. Lemmer of the Escanaba school system, who has approved previous suggestions that through equalization of valuations more tax revenue could be made available and both the financial problem of the county and the schools would beeliminated.

Delta Gets $85,593 In Highway Funds

Lansing—Highway Commissioner Charles M. Ziegler said this week vouchers totalling $16,983,087.07 for return of 1944 first quarter weight tax returns to the counties have been sent to the auditor general's office and payment of the vouchers would be promptly made. The entire amount of the weight tax collections is returned to the counties for expenditure on county roads and city streets. The total of the first quarter return is $1,040,071.97.

Following are the amounts returned by counties:

He figures that as a bombardier he has killed thousands of Germans, and he thinks it is an excellent profession. He says the finest bombing experience he has ever had was when they missed the target one day and quite accidentally hit a barracks full of German troops and killed many of them.

Red Dog is friendly and gay and yet he is a fundamentally serious man who takes the war to heart. The enlisted men of the crew say that he isn't afraid of anything, and that the same is true of Chief Collins. They are a cool pair, yet both are as hospitable and friendly as you could imagine.

The plane's engineer-gunner is Sergt. Eugene Gaines of 2233 Cambrone St., New Orleans. He is distinct from the rest because he married a British girl last December.

They have a little apartment in a town eight miles from the field. Every evening Gaines rides his bicycle home, stays till about midnight, then rides back to the airdrome. For you never know when you may be routed out at 2 a. m. on an early mission, and you must be on hand.

It takes him about 45 minutes to ride the eight miles, and he has made the round trip nightly all winter, in the blackout and through indescribable storms. Such is the course of love.

Gaines is a quiet and sincere young man of 24. He was a carpenter before the war, and he figures that will be a pretty good trade to stick to after the war. But if a depression does come he has an ace in the hole. He had a farm at Pearl River, La., and he figures that with a farm in the background you can always be safe and independent.

Gaines wears a plain wedding ring on his left hand. I've noticed that a lot of the married soldiers over here wear wedding rings.

In flight it is Gaines' job to watch the engine temperatures and pressures and to help with the gadgets during landings and takeoffs. As soon as they reach the other side of the Channel he goes back and takes over the top turret gun. He has shot at a few planes but never knocked one down.

* * *

The radio-gunner is Sergt. John Siebert of 66 Chapple St., Charlestown, Mass. He learned to fly before the war, although he is only 23 now. He had about 800 hours in the air as pilot. Yet because of one defective eye he couldn't get into cadet school.

He had two years at Massachusetts Institute of Technology, and he hopes to go back and finish when the war is over.

Siebert too is quiet and sincere. His closest escape was when his waist gun was shot right out of his hand. The thing just suddenly wasn't there. Yet he didn't get a scratch.

Coast Guard Needs Used Furniture For Island Lounge Room

An appeal has been received by the Escanaba Chapter, American Red Cross, and referred to H. D. Brackett, Escanaba Chamber of Commerce secretary, for the use of several articles of furiture in a U. S. Coast Guard recreation room for personnel stationed at Poverty Island.

The request came from BM 1/c Phillip P. Peterson, officer in charge of the Coast Guard detail at the Poverty Island light station. He writes:

"The room is about 12 by 18 feet. We need a lounge of any kind, two or three easy chairs, a writing desk, a battery radio and a rug. Our personnel can make minor repairs of used furniture. We have no radio here and we receive mail only twice each week if weather conditions permit. Therefore anything you may do, will I assure you, be appreciated."

Poverty Island is located off Garden Peninsula point. The closest post office is at Fayette.

Persons who have such pieces of furniture as requested by the Coast Guard officer are asked to telephone Mr. Brackett at the Chamber of Commerce office, No. 1100.

No "Far-Away" Places

ESPECIALLY for the men and women of America who are fighting our war, there will be no "far away" places when hostilities cease.

The almost wholly subjugated desire that has always existed in the hearts and minds of most Americans, to "some time" visit spots of romance and mystery on the globe, has already been partially supplied by being able to read more about those places than has ever before been the privilege of any generation.

War correspondents paint a word picture, more intimate than has ever before been provided, of little known peoples and countries, but it is the men and women of America, serving with our armed forces, for whom there will exist no "far-away" spots. It is true they are paying a terrific price for that experience, but those who survive are gaining knowledge that could never have been theirs without this global war.

Ernie Pyle, whose war experiences have been largely centered in the European and north African theaters, in his column, tells of the use men of the air-force, based in England, make of their brief "leaves." They visit interesting spots in England, Scotland, Wales and Ireland, where they intimately learn the customs of those peoples, gaining information that in other times, was available only to wealthy Americans. When the subjugation of the European continent is completed, these same men who survive will intimately know other lands and their people.

In the south Pacific, India and China there has been no Ernie Pyle to portray a picture of that part of the world, but American forces are there, gaining similar knowledge to that of their buddies in Europe and before the conflict is closed all of us will likely know the far east and the south Pacific, better than has been the privilege of any other generation.

Kiss of Death

EARL BROWDER, long-time leader of the American Communists, who disbanded as a political party some months ago, has announced that the Moscow-line followers have organized the Communist Political association to participate actively in this country's politics.

In his characteristic manner, Browder added that the association would work for the reelection of President Roosevelt for a fourth term. The endorsement can be regarded as only the "kiss of death" for its recipient, and doubtless the New Deal administration would prefer that Browder had remained silent on the matter.

The Communists in America constitute an insignificant percentage of our population. Their voting strength never amounted to much in their depression heyday, and it certainly has been much reduced in recent years. Many of the distressed intellectuals, who joined the party or became sympathetic "fellow travelers," have departed from the movement, and there remain only a relatively few diehards, concentrated mostly in New York and other metropolitan centers.

But the "kiss of death" given President Roosevelt can be used effectively by the Republicans in the 1944 presidential campaign. Mr. Browder would have been wiser to have kept his mouth shut, but American Communists aren't that way. The G. O. P. national committee should send a box of cigars to the Communist leader for supplying a good campaign issue.

The Great Balzac

HONORE DE BALZAC, who was born 145 years ago Sunday, is one of the greatest names in fictional literature. His Comedie Humaine is a truly colossal work, with several thousand characters and a complete, well rounded out picture of life.

Balzac was born in the French town of Tours and was the first of four children. He was a writer from childhood, with what his sister called "an intuition of renown." He worked with the most painstaking care and is said to have spent hours on the selection of a single word.

For a time he was his own publisher, like Mark Twain, but the enterprise failed. Deeply in debt, he went to work on his first great novel, Les Chouans, a story of Brittany and a very good one. In all he wrote about 70 novels, of which more than half constitute the Comedie Humaine.

Many critics place Balzac second only to Shakespeare in his knowledge of human life and his skill as a delineator of character. He has been called the greatest storehouse of documents that we have on human nature. He died in Paris August 18, 1850, at the age of 51, and his grave there has been the objective of thousands of travelers and visitors.

"More Blunders"

WHILE the federal food and drug administration has admitted it was a "blunder" for its Idaho Falls representative to destroy more than a ton of peanut butter, because containers were mislabeled, that act of wanton waste is not out of line with other New Deal acs of stupidity and failure to exercise just plain horse sense. It was repeatedly reported in Texas newspapers last winter, and never disproven or even denied, that flight training field engineers dumped thousands of gallons of badly needed gasoline on the ground, because it was slightly under the standard tests required by the government.

Such so-called "blunders" are today common-place because of their repetition in practically every phase of governmental activity in the nation.

Maybe the New Dealers aren't entirely to blame for the multiplicity of these "blunders" today, but they can't deny that they started it.

To Good Hands

APPARENTLY a hoard of gold certificates, worth more than $34,000, uncovered when an old stump was overturned near Marquette, is going to prove a welcome windfall, to a simple farm woman down near Mondovi, Wisconsin. It is believed that the cache of money, found in an old coffee-pot, when the stump was uprooted, was buried there, years ago, by her father.

The daughter of the man who risked loss of his savings of a life-time by burying it in the ground, instead of insuring its safety in a bank, had believed her father's estate consisted of only about $4,000, when his death occurred at her home a year ago.

While considerable red tape must be unraveled to place the newly found fortune in the hands of the daughter a lot of humanely minded people will rejoice that it will finally fall into hands that will make good use of here-to-fore useless money.

MR. KEYES AND THE GOP.
(Grand Rapids Press)

Lt. Gov. Eugene Keyes seems to be about the closest thing to self starting perpetual motion one is likely to find in the field of politics. Since the day of his election to the lieutenant governorship two years ago, if not before, he has been campaigning relentlessly with the governorship as his goal. His campaign has followed but one pattern—that of being all things to all people and promising everything accordingly.

Originally the self starting Mr. Keyes announced his intention of entering the Republican primary against Gov. Kelly, whose excellent record should assure him of easy renomination. When even Keyes became convinced that Gov. Kelly was too solid with the voters to be dislodged by a campaign of promises he decided to try for a return to his present post, setting aside his gubernatorial ambitions for another day.

Never a welcome member of the Republican ticket, Keyes soon found, however, that responsible leaders of the party, more than eager to part with his company, were endeavoring to find a strong candidate to oppose him. Auditor General Vernon J. Brown, an efficient and highly respected public servant, was the popular choice of those opposed to Keyes, but Brown at first declined to make the race.

Apparently suspecting that he at last had found an issue which might appeal to the voters, Keyes countered by threatening to jump back into the gubernatorial contest, charging that efforts were being made to "purge" him. This move finally has persuaded Auditor General Brown to enter the race for the second place on the ticket in the best interests of his party.

If this lineup remains as it now stands there would appear to be some hope that Keyes is headed for defeat regardless whether he stays in the race for lieutenant governor or enters the campaign against Gov. Kelly.

What tickles us are the women haters—with seven suits of clothes.

Akron: I've heard it said that the newspaper file where photographs and similar reference material are kept is called "The Morgue." Why?—S. T. W.

A. Because of the grisly humor of some long-forgotten newspaperman who compared the files to the morgue of a municipality.

But the real surprise is that the French word morgue, from which the English word comes, has the primary meaning of "a haughty and contemptuous countenance." So far, I haven't found an explanation for the strange transition in meaning; if I can find it, I'll pass it on to you some day.

World War In The Air

BY MAJOR A. P. de SEVERSKY

In the military sense, victory is not without serious hazards for the victorious countries. Nations that have won wars are always tempted to glorify the methods and weapons which brought success, and therefore to hold on to them long after they have become outmoded.

Seversky

It is no accident that after the first World War the losing side, Germany, turned its thoughts to new weapons and new methods. Having lost by the old methods, it naturally looked for innovations.

Victorious France, on the other hand, glorified the trench. The Maginot Line, which is really the trench idea carried to the extreme, stands as a memorial to that mistake. Also, the military leaders in France, having delivered the goods, came out of the war with a terrific popular prestige. Those who dared question their Maginot Line assumptions—General de Gaulle, for instance—were ignored and ridiculed.

Already there are signs that the United States, which will certainly come out as winner in the present struggle, may repeat this historical pattern. Because the land-and-air team in Europe, the land-sea-and-air team in the Pacific, may win the war, there is the danger that these strategies will be accepted as permanent and beyond criticism. The leaders responsible for these strategies, by the same token, will possess the prestige to prevent free thinking and planning in line with the technological facts of tomorrow rather than those of yesterday.

Certain of our present weapons and tactics are already outlived. We stick to them partly because we are too deeply committed to make changes, and partly through inertia or, as some put it, the fear of "gambling with new ideas."

—WE'LL WIN ANYWAY—

We shall win the war notwithstanding, because of our great resources in materials and manpower and our ability to absorb staggering losses. Overwhelming quantity is often a cure for failures in other directions. The enemy fortunately also makes mistakes and that too helps to make up the balance.

My point is that a victory does not necessarily mean that the new methods used to attain it are valid everywhere for all time. Often victories are won despite fallacious means. And in any case, the part of national wisdom is to leave ourselves mentally free to study the facts and to provide unrestricted scope for the technological realities of tomorrow.

No such freedom is possible unless our military structure of the future is saved from domination by any one branch of the military forces. From this point of view the unyielding attitude of certain Navy leaders in the matter of releasing air power to develop its full strength on an autonomous basis seems to me truly alarming. Now that Mr. Forrestal, who has been the spokesman for the most conservative naval views, is Secretary of the Navy, the problem is even more serious.

In Europe, strategic air power is delivering stunning blows to the enemy. In the nature of the case we cannot know as yet whether these blows are powerful by themselves to shatter the enemy's will and capacity to resist. But there is the possibility, devoutly to be hoped for, that these blows have softened the enemy to such a degree that soon after the great invasion begins the German resistance may crack, then collapse.

If that happens, the surface invasion, rather than the decisive air strategy that preceded, will seem to have attained the victory. The proponents of old-style surface strategy, rather than air strategy, will seem outwardly to have been right. Surface strategists will be fortified in their discounting and misunderstanding of air power, and that would bode ill for the future.

—ROLE OF AIR POWER—

The role of air power in this war must be understood if we are to make full use of aeronautical possibilities for our national security in the years ahead, regardless what the finale of this drama should be. In judging the job done by strategic aviation in the Battle of Germany, whatever the next few months may bring, certain vital facts should be remembered:

1. We entered the war with inadequate air power, and with airplanes conceived and built for tactical rather than strategic use.

2. We channeled our resources and manpower overwhelming into surface weapons, giving aviation an increasing but always minor share.

3. We diverted the major portion of our aviation potential to tactical, auxiliary and transport uses all over the world in support of Army and Navy strategies, leaving only an insignificant fraction for true aerial strategic action.

4. When finally we came around to using air power rightly in its own sphere, we had three counts against us. The first was our lateness, which gave the enemy valuable years in which to prepare its aerial defenses. The second was that we had at our disposal a strategic force far smaller than we needed and than we could have provided, had the views of airmen been heeded. The third was that we failed to make the fullest use of aeronautical science, so that our planes even today are far below the performance level possible and practical at this stage of aviation development, particularly in regard to bombload, fire power and range of operation.

Yeh, but Who Keeps Him Alive?

Good Morning!

—By The Bugler—

THE UNDERDOG—The dog is the only animal that has chosen to make man his master. The other so-called domesticated animals, including the pet tabby cat, find it convenient to have man house and feed them—but they can and do quickly become independent of him if circumstances demand it. Only the dog is subservient enough to lie cringing, eyes pleading, while thoughtlessly cruel humans kick or beat him.

Dunathan

The faithfulness of a dog to his master is touching, and has built up through centuries the universally accepted belief that the dog is man's true friend. The dog, incidentally, appeals to man's ego. Even the friendless tramp, the crabid recluse, will find in a dog the respect and affection that fellow humans deny him.

In Escanaba the recent passage of a dog ordinance by the city council, which will become effective soon, has brought the matter of dog control forcibly to public attention. It is something that could no longer be ignored by Escanaba police nor the city council. The clamor for dog control, and especially from victory gardeners, made action necessary.

For the benefit of dog owners whose attachment to their pets is close and deep, it would be well to point out that the dog ordinance is the first attempt on the part of Escanaba officials to demand from dog owners a legal responsibility toward their pets. For the first time in the history of the city of Escanaba dogs will not be permitted to run at large during the summer months.

* * *

"PERSECUTED DOG"—The excerpts rom the following letter by "Gaius" is typical of some dog owner's reaction to make them responsible for the conduct of their pet. "Gaius" writes:

"Among all the animals that the Creator has placed upon the earth, the dog alone has chosen man as his friend and companion. And because of his choice he is being constantly persecuted by people who resent the fact that the dog has chosen to be the friend of man.

"This is no reflection upon the dog. It is a grim reminder of the ingratitude and selfishness of men. The Creator must have meant that the dog as well as other animals shall have some rights on this earth.

"If all of the damage done by dogs in Escanaba were given a dollars and cents value, it would amount to a very small sum.

"O lonesome and wicked dog, who still remains man's best friend, a girl's pet, a boy's pal, thou art misunderstood and persecuted by a multitude who know not what they do. If I were a dog I would desert man, but thou remainest true in spite of man's persecution of thee, in spite of man's selfishness. Sometimes I wish that we had more dogs and fewer men."

* * *

EMOTIONALISM — Frankly, the Bugler believes "Gaius" approaches the question under discussion far too emotionally. His reference to more dogs and fewer men is emotionally unbalanced. It is like the old bachelor who, crabbing to the police about dogs and kids, said: "The dogs ain't so bad, but if you could get rid of a lot of those damn kids it would help."

* * *

REASONABLE SIDE—On the other hand we have many dog owners as reasonable in their approach to the problem as "Gaius" is over-emotional. One of these, an Escanaba business man who says frankly that he wouldn't be without a dog, believes the period over which the dog control is extended is too long. The dog ordinance provides that dogs must not be permitted to run at large from April 1 to September 30. That's six months of the year.

"To set a date as late as September 30 is simply prejudice, not protection of property," this business man dog owners believes. "Most of the gardens are fully matured by July 30 or, at the latest, August 15. Either of those dates would be more reasonable a time to end the confinement of dogs."

Such reasonable objections should be reasonably discussed with the city council. The councilmen, as every man and woman in Escanaba knows, are not "dog haters." Far from it. Mayor Sam Wickman's dog is a living example of the dog's contribution to man, and at least one more member of the council, Victor Nelson, owns a dog.

No, your city councilmen are just like other folks here in town. But they recognize that a problem in the control of dogs does exist in the city.

They know, if you don't, that hundreds of complaints are received each spring and summer by the police from citizens whose property is damaged or destroyed by stray dogs. They know that a score or more Escanaba children are bitten, sometimes painfully, each year by dogs. They know that the cost to the taxpayer is considerable in keeping the city's dog population somewhere near the reasonable figure.

And they know, too, that if they do nothing about it they will be damned—and if they do they will be damned too.

* * *

WHO IS THE FRIEND—Coming right down to fundamentals, who is the dog's best friend? Is it the criminally careless owner, who permits his dog to stray, neglected, hungry, often diseased, about the streets and alleys of the city? Is he the dog's best friend?

Or is it the city councilman and the law enforcement officer, who pass and enforce laws requiring the dog owner to take reasonable care of the dog he professes to love?

—Clint Dunathan.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON

(Lt. Col. Robert S. Allen now on active service with the Army)

Washington—Civilians may not understand it but, inside the Army and Navy, the top-heavy awarding of medals to Army heroes is causing unfortunate bitterness and rancor.

You don't hear so much about it on the home front but, in the officers' clubs in Hawaii or Australia, you will see a Naval airman come up to a bemedalled Army airman and say, "Hi, hero." Sometimes this is almost a fighting salutation. Sometimes it results in a long and heated argument about how little the Army has done compared with the Navy to deserve decorations.

Pearson

Sometimes brawls have resulted—all from the fact that the Army has given more than 100,000 air medals since the war started as against only about 700 for the Navy. While the Navy is smaller—about one-fifth—the ratio of medals is about 7 to 1,000.

There is no disposition here to detract from the valor of Army heroes. They deserve every ribbon they get and then some. But somehow or other, Navy awards should be standardized with the Army's, so that a Navy man who has shot down just as many enemy planes doesn't come home only to find that his neighbor in the Army is a hero while he, in the Navy, hasn't one single decoration ribbon on his tunic.

—CONTRAST IN AWARDS—

What particularly riled Navy men was the Army's award of the Distinguished Service Cross, the Silver Star and the Purple Heart to a dog. Meanwhile, some Naval airmen who had been flying for two years hadn't been decorated.

For instance, when Naval fliers operated from Guadalcanal for four long months, scarcely able to hold Henderson Field and living only an Jap food, they got no reward. But when the Army came into Guadalcanal, the men of a ground crew who remained there only one week got the Legion of Merit. The Navy fliers who had fought on Guadalcanal for four months were almost ignored.

Again, while Brig. Gen. Oliver R. Germann received seven citations in one day for participating in 17 missions over Europe, Marine Corps Major Gregory Boyington had to shoot down 26 Jap planes before being awarded a medal. Not until last month (three months after he had been reported missing in action) was he finally given the Medal of Honor. General Germann certainly deserved his awards and then some, but the Marine Corps and Navy can't help feeling that their men with equal or greater records also deserve recognition.

Again, Corporal Henry J. Bonura was awarded the Legion of Merit by General Eisenhower for establishing twenty baseball fields in North Africa. Without detracting from his credit, nevertheless Naval officers are irked when Marine Corps officers like Capt. Roger Haberman, Lt. Jack Pittman, Capt. Ernest Powell, Capt. William Snyder, Capt. Stanley Synar and Major Arthur Warner shoot down five Jap planes each—and in some cases more — without receiving citations.

—ROOSEVELT'S CALLER—

Seventy-five-year-old Secretary of War Stimson left the President's office the other day after a weighty conference on the war. Two seconds later, a six-year-old girl, blonde and dimpled, tripped in. She was Phyllis Firebaugh of Eaton Rapids, Michigan, chosen by the Veterans of Foreign Wars to pin a poppy on the President, opening the VFW's annual "Buy a Poppy" drive for the orphaned children of service men.

Roosevelt seemed to enjoy the contrast. He leaned back, with a broad grin, and remarked: "It sure is a big relief to talk to a pretty little girl after all the conferences on the war. Come up here and sit beside me."

Omar B. Ketchum, VFW legislative representative, sat the tiny visitor on the President's desk. Then a battery of news photographers went to work on the first pictures of Roosevelt since his return from South Carolina.

However, there was little relief for the President in the picture-taking, though he grinned through it all. He had to pose six times with Phyllis, daughter of a deceased war vet, before the cameramen were satisfied. Trouble was that Roosevelt couldn't get the little girl to smile.

"I was too excited," Phyllis told VFW officials afterwards, with good reason.

The President evinced an interest in one camera. "I don't recall seeing one like that before," he remarked. "What kind is it?"

"Oh, it's just a good camera, Mr. President," replied the photog.

Worry Clinic

With Case Records Of A Psychologist

BY DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

CASE C-250: Horace, G., aged 37, is a factory worker.

"My wife has been going to a doctor for the past two weeks, but I can't stand his prices," he informed me.

"Why, he doesn't spend 15 minutes with her, but he charges me $5, and if he makes a house call, it is $10.

"And think of what he makes when he performs a surgical operation. I understand he charges $250 to take out an appendix."

DIAGNOSIS: As I recall, it was Daniel Webster who was once consulted by a local blacksmith about a novel point of law. Webster recognized that the case was exceptional, so he informed his client to come back later, for he didn't have any specific precedent and needed time to think the matter over.

Webster then journeyed to the neighboring large city of Boston and pored over the law books. He even bought himself a few volumes to help prepare the case.

When the trial occurred, Webster demolished the opposing lawyer's arguments and quickly won the decision.

Asked what his charge would be, Webster told the blacksmith that he would leave it up to him.

"Well, it didn't take you but a few minutes to win the judge over so I think a dollar ought to be about right," said his client.

Webster had already spent about $40 in getting the data together but the blacksmith didn't know that and didn't realize that Webster's time in making the trip to the next city was all spent on that one case.

Why Fees Are High

The city physician may also be in his office for only a couple of hours in the afternoon, and devote but 15 minutes to an examination of your chest and throat.

He may spend his mornings in free clinics or donating his time to instruct medical students, for the practitioners who teach part time seldom get any pay for the latter work.

And when a surgeon cuts into your body, there is always the possibility of life or death, so he is under terrific pressure.

While surgery is practically fool-proof nowadays, fatalities do occasionally take place because of freakish things like a tiny blood clot floating till it lodges in the brain or heart as an embolus.

I am not defending excessive professional fees, but simply suggesting that many expenses enter into a fee besides the few minutes of a doctor's time. His x-ray machine and nurse's salary, office expenses and especially the hazard which he automatically undertakes all are part of your fee.

A business executive, by contrast, doesn't engage in life and death deals, for furniture or automobiles, groceries or clothing do not die. A doctor's patients can die, and even though no physician can save your life forever, the doctor often gets the blame and his reputation thus suffers.

Patronize Young Doctors

After a physician has been in practice for a number of years, he may specialize in a certain type of case which he likes best.

With specialization, come high fees. And the more popular doctors may charge higher fees, for if their time is in greater demand you must pay accordingly.

A young doctor just out of medical or dental college, however, is excellently trained and fully competent, so don't follow the mob and seek the high priced doctor, if you object to higher fees.

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long 3c stamped, addressed envelope and a dime to cover typing or printing costs when you seek personal advice or one of his psychological charts.)

Special Services For Re-Opening Of Wells Church

Reopening of the Wells Free Methodist church will be marked by special services with guest speakers, including Bishop William Pearce of Rochester, N. Y., beginning Friday evening, May 26, and continuing through Sunday, May 28, it was announced yesterday by Andrew Counterman, pastor.

All evening services will begin at 7:45 o'clock.

Rev. B. G. Wyma of Manistique will be the speaker Friday night; Rev. William Erickson of Sault Ste. Marie will speak at the Saturday night service and Bishop Pearce will be guest speaker at the Sunday services at 10 o'clock and in the evening.

The Wells Free Methodist church formerly was known as the Wells Union church and was the property of the I. Stephenson company. It recently was acquired by the Free Methodist church. The building has been redecorated and some repairs made.

A cordial invitation is extended to the public to attend the opening services.

DOW WILL USE U. P. DOLOMITE

Million Tons Annually Will Be Quarried On Drummond

DeTour — Quarries on Drummond Island will furnish Dow Chemical company plants at Ludington, Mich., a million tons of dolomite annually and preparations for quarrying the rock are already under way.

According to reports reaching here, Earl W. Bennett, president of Dow Magnesium Corporation, Ludington, an affiliate of Dow Chemical, has announced that a contract has been entered between the Defense Plant Corporation acting through Dow Chemical, and the Sturgeon Bay company for delivery of the dolomite.

Dow has constructed new docks at Ludington for receiving the dolomite by ship, while the Sturgeon Bay company has been at work on dock installations on Drummond.

The Sturgeon Bay company is to have its office at DeTour and most of the workmen, it is expected, will be housed there.

Just when quarrying operations will start is not known here, nor is the number of workmen to be employed.

Whistles, Bells To Sound Here As Invasion Opens

No matter at what hour the invasion of Hitler-held Europe opens, the signal that "D-Day" has begun will be sounded by bell and whistle in Escanaba under an arrangement set up by the Michigan office of Civilian Defense, it was announced yesterday by John Lemmer, local Civilian Defense chairman.

Donald S. Leonard, director of Civilian Defense, has advised Chairman Lemmer of arrangements for the state-wide program to notify the public that invasion has started.

D-Day is not to be one of celebration. Rather, at the request of Gov. Kelly, it is well "a day of solemn reflection and prayer". Anything characteristic of a celebration or other improper observance is discouraged.

The Office of Civilian Defense is offering its assistance to churches in preparing and holding invasion day observance meetings. The state air raid warning system will be used to flash the message of the governor, officially designated the day for solemn observance. When that message is received air raid sirens, factory whistles and church bells will be sounded for 90 seconds. This is to be followed by a cessation of all activities for one minute, which will be given over to silent prayer and reflection upon the significance of the occasion.

Traffic is to come to a halt, and activities are to cease in stores, factories, schools and elsewhere.

It is likely that newspapers and radio will convey information of the invasion before defense council chairmen receive their state message, particularly if the invasion begins during the night, Lemmer was advised. Observances are to be held in abeyance, however, until receipt of the state message.

"In this way only can there be a safeguard against spontaneous observances based on false reports, such as the secretary of war has cautioned against," Director Leonard advised Lemmer.

Many churches in Michigan are planning special services in observance of D-Day. The use of the simultaneous signal throughout the state will provide the opportunity to have these meetings and services held all at the same hour. It was emphasized that the signal is not given to provide an excuse for thoughtless celebration, rather it is the signal for a time of prayer and reflection.

When the message is received at defense headquarters here it will be relayed to churches, industries and the city's own steam plant. At a given time the whistles and bells will sound their signal that the invasion has started and that American and Allied forces are launching their attack against the enemy's European stronghold.

How yours truly got out of the "ower class"

I USED TO BE the kind of guy who was always on the owing end of the deal.

I owed on the wedding ring. I owed on the house and the car and the furniture.

If I was even with the grocer, I owed the gas man. If I was even with the gas man, I owed the grocer. Golly, I got tired of it. (And so did the grocer.)

But, it's all different now!

After Pearl Harbor, I started buying War Bonds on the Payroll Saving Plan. Every pay day, regular as clockwork, I lent 10% of what I was making to Uncle Sam. Knew he needed it to win the war . . . and this Payroll Plan was the simple, easy way to do my part.

What more, it's automatic. Keeps me buying Bonds regular, instead of forgetting and frittering away the money somewhere else.

Well, sir, I soon found out I could afford putting this money in Bonds. I'm making better money these days, and there's a darn sight fewer things for me and the missus to spend that money on. So, I'm actually coming out even, Bonds and all.

And the other night, fingering over those nice crisp War Bonds, I said to the missus: "For once," I said, "we got somebody owing us money. And that somebody is Uncle Sam. He's promising to pay us back $4.00 for every $3.00 we put in these Bonds. And, just between you and me and the lamp post, there no surer promise in the world."

"My," said the missus, "why don't we try to buy more of those Bonds out of your pay? I could do some paring down here and there. Let's see if we can't make it 15% instead of 10%."

We did it, by golly! AND SO CAN YOU!

Newman-McNulty

Margaret Regina Newman, Leominster, Mass., daughter of Mrs. Charles Newman, city, and Clifford W. McNulty, Ayer, Mass., son of Mr. and Mrs. W. McNulty, Medford, Mass., were united in marriage at the Federated church in Medford on Sunday, May 14, at 3 o'clock, the Rev. Hugh Penny officiating.

The church was decorated with white lilacs and apple blossoms for the occasion.

Attending the couple were Lenore Beauchamp of Gladstone and Robert McNeff of Ayer, Mass. Mr. Shattuck and Mr. Harlow served as ushers.

The bride was gowned in white marquisette and wore a mantilla for a headpiece. Pink and white carnations formed her corsage.

Her attendant's gown was of aqua with matching headpiece and gloves. Her corsage was of snapdragons and lillies.

Following the ceremony a buffet lunch was served at the home of the groom's parents with fifty guests present. Centering the board was a wedding cake topped with miniature bride and groom. The home was decorated with pink and white streamers.

Their honeymoon was spent in Michigan. They will reside at Sandy Pond, Ayer, Mass.

The bride attended Gladstone high school and has been employed at the Standard Pyoxolid at Leominster. The groom is a graduate of Worcester Polytec and is a licensed plumber.

While in Gladstone Mrs. McNulty was feted at a miscellaneous shower held at the home of her mother, 620 North Eighth street. Games were played. In five hundred Mrs. Lawrence Gagner was high and Mrs. Alger Strom second. In another game Mrs. N. Hagman was first and Mrs. G. Kositsky low. A special award went to Mrs. L. B. Johnson. A delicious luncheon was served at the close. Arrangements for the party were made by Mrs. Fred Burch.

A. T. SOHLBERG ROTE SPEAKER

Background Of Present Conflict Traced In Address

A picture of what is behind the present world conflict was presented before the Gladstone Rotary club yesterday noon by A. Theodore Sohlberg. "History of today is made up of many yesterdays," he said in a prepared address. "One generation cannot blot out what has been written by generations that have gone before."

Washington and Jefferson supposedly committed this nation to a policy expressed in the famous phrase 'entangling alliances with none.' Students of history begin to surmise that this policy has failed to stand the test of time. The nation has sometimes entered into temporary arrangements, as in time of war. It has never entered into any alliance of permanent nature, either for the purpose of maintaining peace or for the purpose of making war.

"But despite this the nation has become directly or indirectly involved in almost all foreign wars that have taken place since the founding of the Republic, and conversely our own internal disturbances have had profound effect on conditions in other lands.

"The ink had scarcely dried on the congressional record containing the farewell address of George Washington before the first president found himself in the uniform of a lieutenant general prepared to lead the armies of the United States against France, because of a situation that had arisen solely within France itself. Fourteen years later the nation found itself at war with Great Britain—an offshoot of the Napoleonic wars. Our only attempt at complete isolation occurred during the term of Jefferson and led to near bankruptcy of the nation, while the New England states prepared to secede from the Union. When the Civil War broke out there followed hunger and distress and consequent wild riots in Lancashire. The British government was on the verge of recognizing the Confederacy and making war on the United States. The country that saved us in this emergency was Russia, the speaker said.

During our war with Spain this country almost came to blows with Germany and here it was England that probably saved our bacon. We fought the War of 1812 for the principle of the freedom of the seas and in 1917 went to war again in defense of the same principle of international law, against Germany. But in the last analysis the question has always narrowed down to one of national security.

Avoidance of alliances with other nations has placed us at a disadvantage. For while we have endeavored to remain aloof the "witches cauldron" has boiled elsewhere. We have been able to speak only for ourselves. We have never had anything to say as to when or how there should be war or peace. We failed to lend our strength to our will for peace when we emasculated the League of Nations by remaining outside of it.

But while we never entered into formal alliances with other nations we nevertheless made commitments which exposed us to danger from many sides, Mr. Sohlberg said. One was through the Monroe Doctrine by the formula of which this nation, then but a gangling child, committed itself to protection of the whole American continent with a coastline of some 20,000 miles.

Then another step was taken which was to have far reaching effect. In 1853 we secured the opening of the ports of Japan to our trade. By this we opened a new Pandora's box which let loose upon the world and especially upon Asia a new set of troubles—the Shinto inspired concept of Japanese nationalism that it was destined to rule Asia and potentially the rest of the world. There was a quick awakening of the people and they began to look around for worlds to conquer.

In 1867 we purchased Alaska from Russia. In 1898 over the stern protest of the Japanese government we annexed the Hawaiian Islands. Two years later we went further afield and by purchase and conquest acquired the Philippines. This brought us directly into conflict with Japanese territorial ambitions. And finally in the same year at the end of the Boxer rebellion Secretary Hay was able to announce that he had secured the assent of the great powers to maintain the territorial integrity of China. Here was another direct slap at Japanese ambitions.

The same year Kaiser Wilhelm started the German navy, neutralizing the British fleet as far as the Monroe Doctrine was concerned. We were on our own.

Theodore Roosevelt understanding the situation and the implications of our commitments in the Pacific realized we would have to develop our own naval power and also that a canal across the Isthmus of Panama was essential to national security. In his own words he "took Panama." This put South America and Japan on guard.

And so in the first decade of the last century we had established ourselves in the eyes of mankind as a nation with large imperialistic ambitions — a nation that intended to take what it wanted and we had gained the undying hatred of the Japanese, the speaker said.

All of this adds up to a tremendous burden of responsibilities that has been laid upon the government of the United States especially in the last decade.

To let Great Britain go down was unthinkable. With Nazi Germany in control of Western Europe and of West Africa as far as Dakar would have placed on this nation burdens of intolerable proportions. And to withdraw our support from China and to surrender our rights under international law which was what the Japanese demanded as the price of peace in the Pacific was equally unthinkable.

Fifty years ago Kaiser Wilhelm startled the world with his famous pronouncement about the 'yellow peril.' The signs have been accumulating of a possible and even inevitable clash between the white and yellow races—the day of Armageddon and a war with which the present conflict will seem but a mild interlude. Statesmen of today believe that if the Japanese were to realize their ambition to dominate Asia with nearly half the population of the globe and with the fabulous wealth of the South Seas then the day of Armageddon is not far away.

The speaker said that along with statesmen of today he believed out of the present war will arise a new and strong China—a China under enlightened Christian leadership—a China that accepts the moral codes of western civilization and a China with which the western races may live in accord.

In the final analysis the war with Germany is but a side issue. The cloud over the Pacific has by far the greatest portents for the generations that shall come after us, the speaker concluded.

GLADSTONE TO OBSERVE D-DAY

Governor Asks Statewide Pause For Prayer At Time

Gladstone will participate in simultaneous state - wide observance on D-Day, a day proclaimed by Governor Harry F. Kelly as one for solemn reflection and prayer, when all people of the state are asked to petition Providence for success in battle and for the safety of our sons taking part in it.

The day to be officially observed as D-Day or invasion day is to be designated on that day by the governor. This is being done to guard against premature observances based on false invasion reports and to provide for the simultaneous one-minute pause. The day will be chosen immediately when it is authentically recognizetd that the invasion is under way.

The State Air Raid Warning system will be used to flash the governor's message to each community. At a time to be designated in the message air raid sirens, factory whistles, church bells and other audible signals are to be sounded for a perjod of ninety seconds. This is to be followed by a cessation of all activities for a period of one minute which is to be given over to silent prayer and reflection upon the solemn significance of the occasion. Traffic is to come to a halt and activities are to cease in stores, factories, schools and elsewhere.

Donald S. Leonard, state director of civilian defense, emphasizes that the observance is specifically not a celebration, but a moment for solemn reflection upon the cause for which we fight and prayers for our sons and friends who are risking their lives in the battle.

State Police Race Stork And—Win!

State police of the Gladstone detachment played the Good Samaritans Sunday morning. Anticipating a blessed event, a Rock resident was enroute to St. Francis hospital when tires on his auto went bad. There was no time to procure new tires. The police post was advised and Troopers Mason Meyer and Robert Leonard covered the remaining distance at breakneck speed in a patrol car and arrived with the prospective mother at the hospital just in the nick of time.

MANISTIQUE TO OBSERVE D-DAY

Whistles To Blow; To Be Followed By Minute Of Prayer

Plans were made yesterday for the observance in Manistique of Invasion Day, the Civilian Defense Council reports.

When the actual invasion of Europe begins, the fact will be announced by the Governor and everyone will be asked to observe the occasion in a moment of "solemn reflection and prayer," the OCD reports.

In Manistique arrangements have been made whereby the Governor's message will be received through the state warning system. At the prescribed moment, air raid sirens, whistles and bells will sound for 90 seconds. All activities in stores, offices, factories, schools, theaters and elsewhere will be suspended for a full moment during which time everyone will be asked to pause for 60 seconds. It was pointed out that it will not be an occasion for celebration; rather an occasion for prayer.

Governor Harry F. Kelly has proclaimed "D-Day," invasion day, as a day when all people of Michigan are asked to petition Providence for success in battle and for the safety of our sons taking part in it. In cooperation with the Governor's request, the Office of Civilian Defense is working out details of announcing the day. Every effort is being made to avoid false reports. The state Air Raid Warning system will be used to flash the Governor's message to each community. The D-Day message will give the time for observance in both eastern and central war time areas.

Churches are being asked to arrange for special services on D-Day, the Civilian Defense council reports. Such programs will include a rededication of all persons to the cause for which this country is fighting, appropriate patriotic music and hymns, prayer, and inspirational address, and a re-evaluation by each citizen of his own contribution and effort to winning the war.

Man Arrested After Accident Saturday On North Houghton

For driving a truck with faulty brakes, resulting in an accident on north Houghton avenue Saturday, Frank Hartman was issued a summons by city police and paid court costs of $2.

The Hartman truck was proceeding north on Houghton, the police report indicates, and while attempting to turn west it struck an on-coming car driven by William J. Jordan. The entire left side of the Jordan car was heavily damaged. No one was injured.

Hartman's arrest was the result of a new state-wide ruling in regards to brakes. If it is possible to depress the brake pedal to within less than an inch of the floor board, the brakes are faulty, the new ruling stipulates.

FLOWING GOLD

Santa Rosa, Calif. (AP)—Gasoline flowed in the gutter here recently but only Jack Balin, Navy recruiting specialist, 1/c, had presence of mind to scoop any of it up. The flood originated in a tipped truck gas tank. Balin, able to rescue a quart, said he'll use it to clean fingerprint equipment.

ONLY ONE MAN IN ARMY CALL

Will Leave Here May 30; Pre-Induction Call On June 5

A call for one man to be inducted into the Army on May 30 has been received by the Schoolcraft county draft board, as well as an official call for men to go to the pre-induction station at Marquette on June 5.

Local draft board has sent a notice to report for induction to Anton Gentile. Also traveling with him to Fort Sheridan on May 30 are two transfers: Howard Paulson and Francis Stage.

The Schoolcraft county contingent to go to Marquette on June 5 for pre-induction exams was to be drawn up by the local board last night. It was thought that the call, about one third of the size of the group that went to Marquette early in May, will consist chiefly of men 18 to 26. Men over 26 who are not necessary men in an essential industry are also eligible for call.

Navy Still Needs Men For Training In Radio School

The U. S. Navy Recruiter from Escanaba, will be in Manistique at the Post Office Building, on Saturday May 27th on recruiting duty. Men 17 years of age, and from 38 to 50, can be accepted for general service and they may make application for enlistment now, and leave for Milwaukee to complete their enlistment at a later date, if they so desire. However 17 year olds must have their examination and be sworn in approximately a week before their 18th birthday.

The Navy still needs Radio Technicians, and any man with a high school education may take the examination for this branch of the service. Men who qualify, will be sent to school for 10 months and upon completion of this school, will be rated Radio Technician Second Class, paying $96.00 per month base pay.

There is also an urgent need for more WAVES, and women 20 to 35 years of age inclusive, who have two years of high school, are eligible for this branch of the service. Women who make application for the WAVES now, may leave for their indoctrination training at a later date if they so desire.

DETROIT DOES BEST ON ROAD

BY WATSON SPOELSTRA

Detroit, May 22 (AP)—The old truism that there is no place like home is indeed an empty phrase to the Detroit Tigers, returning today from the east where they won 10 of 14 games and climbed from the cellar to the American League's fourth place.

Most clubs expecting to get anywhere in baseball calculate that a .500 road record is superb, thus enabling the club to fatten its average at home. But not so with the Tigers. They have won one and lost nine at Briggs Stadium for a .100 average playing at a .667 clip on the road with 14 victories and seven defeats.

The Detroit front office was a particularly desolate spot a fortnight ago when the Tigers headed east with a five-game losing streak, but General Manager Jack Zeller and his staff were all smiles today. Detroit has a six-game winning streak, its longest since the 1940 pennant days.

"Our pitching is superb, six runs by the opposition in the last six games," said Zeller jubilantly. "Besides, I think we have a league record with three victories in 22½ hours. We beat Washing in a night game Saturday and then swept both ends of a Sunday double-header, all in less than 24 hours."

Zeller's explanation for the weak home record is that the players were trying too hard to win for Manager Steve O'Neill.

"It got so bad that O'Neill had to call a squad meeting before they left for the east," Zeller related. "He told the boys to quit worrying about the manager and just to relax and play the kind of baseball they were capable of playing."

The notable feature of the conquest of the east aside from the tight pitching was batting of Pinky Higgins, whose 35th birthday anniversary is Saturday. Higgins boosted his average nearly 100 points past the .300 mark. He batted in 13 runs in the last 12 games.

The Tigers open a 15-game home stand against eastern clubs by meeting the Philadelphia Athletics Wednesday.

Press Team Beats Postoffice, 18-16

The Daily Press Typeslingers staged a sixth inning rally to score eight runs and defeat the Postoffice softball team in the first meeting of the season Sunday morning, 18 to 16.

The Press got off to a five run lead but the PO crew settled down and took a 12-5 lead at the end of the third frame.

Heavy hitting and loose fielding accounted for the high scoring.

The summary:

The Sports Parade

By Ken Gunderman

When the Eskymos won the upper peninsula track and field championship last Saturday at Houghton, it was the third U. P. sports title taken by the Escanaba high school athletes during the current school year. Other championships won by Eskymo athletes were in cross country last fall and basketball in March. The current issue of the MHSAA Bulleton includes a picture of the Escanaba basketball championship team.

* * *

Who is the oldest active softball pitcher in Escanaba?.. Well, the Press Typeslingers present as their candidate John J. McCarthy who celebrated his 59th birthday anniversary Sunday by pitching the Press team to a narrow 18-16 victory over the Postoffice crew. Mac's fast ball isn't so fast any more and his curve is non-existent but he still can withstand seven innings or more of unmerciful pounding and come up smiling. Ain't that somethin'?

* * *

The representative council of the MHSAA is studying a proposal for the equalization of expense allowances to competing schools in the state basketball tournaments. The council has indicated that it favors an increase in transportation allowances to cover actual costs of transportation and meal expenses. Various plans are being studied and a report will be made at the next meeting of the council in June. A boost in the allowances is almost a certainty and the new policy will probably also include provisions for a uniform rate of payment to all schools in the state.

Luke Sewell is the only catcher in modern major league history who has handled three no-hit games and he believes that the present baseball season may see a new record in no-hit performances. Sewell caught Wes Ferrell's no-hitter with Cleveland against St. Louis in 1931, Vernon Kennedy's no hitter with Chicago against Cleveland in 1935 and Bill Dietrich's with Chicago against the Browns in 1937. The Brownies' manager says that batting power has levelled off in both leagues this year and the pitchers have the advantage, although he concedes pitching is no better now than it has been in the past 10 years.

* * *

The Detroit Tigers moved into the first division Sunday with a sweep of a doubleheader with the Washington Senators, 2-1, and 7-1. It was the fourth victory of the series for the Tigers, who have been much more successful on the road this season than they have been at home. In the cellar not so long ago, the Tigers are now only 3 1-2 games out of first place. As a matter of fact, only five games separate the league leading Yanks from the tail end White Sox.

DIAMOND BALL

DX 6, ELKS 1

Three hits in the first inning brought in a run for the Elks in their game with the Wells DX last night but Weber, the DX pitcher, got better as the game went on and his team came through with a 6-1 victory. Mild spring weather brought out a good crowd.

Wells DX	121 002 x—6 7 2
Elks	100 000 0—1 4 1

Batteries: Wells DX—Weber and Hanson; Elks—Dufresne and Besson.

BIRCH JUNIORS WIN

The L&L put on a rally in the ninth, but it fell short, and the White Birch juniors won the decision last night, 3 and 2.

The score by innings:

L&L	000 010 1—2 2 5
Birch Jrs.	102 000 0—3 3 3

Pitcher From Hills Leading Southpaw, Was Right-Hander

St. Louis, May 22 (AP)—A natural, right-hander from the hills of North Carolina has become the National League's leading pitcher—as a left-hander.

Hubert Max Lanier of Denton, N. C., currently topping senior circuit twirlers wth six victories and no defeats (officially, at least), signed a St. Louis Cardinal contract in 1933 after a successful high school record.

The Cards wanted Max to work up gradually, but he didn't like minor league salaries and refused to report for four years.

Finally, Branch Rickey sent his brother Frank to talk to Lanier, and Max agreed to play for the Cardinal system, providing he could get to the majors in two years.

Lanier came up to the big time in 1938. After only fair success, he found his stride last season to mark up the best left-handed record in the league—15 victories, seven defeats.

But Max started out life as a right-hanred and did everything right handed until he was eight years old. Then he suffered a broken right arm. With the arm in a sling he tried out his left arm. Two more breaks in the right one, and Max was definitely committed to the southpaw way of life.

Maybe because his left-handed throwing style is only adopted, Lanier is anything but the typical eccentric portsider.

He speaks quietly, when at all, and his control has continually improved. This season in winning six games he struck out 37 men—including 11 New York Giants in his last start—and walked only eleven.

Besides being a talented pitcher, Max can strum a guitar and play a mouth organ, and has performed creditably with Pepper Martin's Mudcat band.

Before pitching a game he likes to listen to "It's Too Late to Worry," "They Buried My Mathidla in a White Pine Box" and similar laments.

Only mar on Lanier's 1944 record is a seven-inning unfinished game with Philadelphia. Max didn't impress the Phillies and left the game after four innings with the score against him. The two teams have to complete the final two innings next time Philadelphia visits Sportsman's Park, late in June.

If the Phillies win, Max will be charged with his first loss of the year. If the Cardinals win, he will retain an unblemished record.

Gladstone 9 Plays Tie At Bark River

The Gladstone All-Stars and the Bark River Lions went into extra innings and a 11-11 tie at Bark River last Sunday, the game being called at the end of the tenth frame because of rain. Gladstone held a two run lead going into the last of the ninth, but Bark River rallied with singles by Bergstrom, B. Johnson and Douglas for two counters which tied the game at that point. Gladstone scored 8 of their tallies off Derocher who was relieved in the fourth inning by Johnson. The Gladstone batters were held to five singles and three runs from then on. In spite of a slippery ball, Johnson whiffed sixteen batsmen making a total of 23 Gladstone batters who went down via the strikeout route. Although Bark River landed on B. Young, Gladstone hurler, for 17 hits, his effectiveness in the clutches left many Bark River runners stranded on base. He fanned three and walked only one. Each team committed 7 errors.

Next Sunday Bark River will play Powers on the latter's field.

Score by innings:

Gladstone	140 300 201 0—11 8 7
BarkRiver	130 401 002 0—11 17 7

Batteries: B. Young and S. Young; Derocher, B. Johnson (4) and Koslowski.

Umpires: McInnis and Peterson.

Scorer: R. Raymond.

MARKET RULED BY SPECIALTIES

BY BERNARD S. O'HARA

New York, May 22 (AP)—Specialties continued to rule the recovery sector of today's stock market, along with scattered motors, gold mines, rubbers and utilities, but many leaders emulated their indifferent performance of the past week.

The Associated Press 60-stock average was off .1 of a point at 52.2, its first slight recession since May 12. Transfers totalled 700,800 shares compared with 189,300 in the preceding 5-hour stretch.

At peaks for 1944 were Mack Truck, Fruehauf Trailer, Firestone Tire, Public Service of N. J., National Acme, Hayes Mfg., and General Time Instruments. Ahead were General Motors, Chrysler, Du Pont, Flintkote, Johns-Manville, Dome, Homestake and Libby-McNeill. Among decliners were U. S. Steel, N. Y. Central, Union Pacific, Sears Roebuck, Texas Co. and Douglas Aircraft.

RAILS MOVE AHEAD

New York, May 22 (AP)—Selected rails moved ahead sharply in the bond market today although for some the uptrend was reversed by profit cashing that developed in the final hour.

Closing gains of fractions to more than two points were enough to boost the Associated Press 20-rail bond index to another new 1944 high at 89.5, up .1 of a point from Saturday. Volume had a face value of $8,453,700 against $12,435,900 Friday.

Outside the rail section, American Telephone 3s tacked on 1-8 and Abitibi Paper & Power stamped 5s climbed 2 points to 75.

Buoyant carriers included Morris & Essex 5s and 4½s with gains of 1 7-8 and 2 1-8, respectively, and Cotton Belt refunding 5s, which rose 2.

Fractional improvement on larger volume was chalked up for North Western convertibles, St. Paul 5s and adjusted 5s, Rock Island refunding 4s, Lehigh Valley 4½s and stamped 4s, Missouri Pacific "F" 5s of '77, New York Central 4½s, New Haven convertible 6s, Northern Pacific 6s and Southern Pacific refunding 4s.

Argentine and Brazilian government and provincial loans attracted some buyers in an otherwise mixed foreign list. U. S. governments held steady in quiet dealings.

Why no one can play wolf

IN TIMES OF FULL AND PLENTY, no limit need be placed on anyone's larder—but these aren't full-and-plenty times.

There's a scarcity of needed things and a vital reason for rationing—each can have enough if no one is permitted to have a lot. It's the only fair way of doing.

* * *

A like brand of fairness is behind the present purchase-limits placed on IMPERIAL. With all America's distilleries producing alcohol for war use, the present supply of whiskey must be made to last longer than anyone had planned. Like other things, IMPERIAL is one of our national scarcities.

That's the reason you can't buy all you may want of this famed "velveted" whiskey. But certainly some for all is fairer than all for some.

In spite of the whiskey shortage there has been no change in the official price of IMPERIAL except for new federal excise taxes.

ONLY FOURTEEN CIVIL WAR VETS

James Lyon, Menominee Now One Hundred Years Old

BY JACK I. GREEN

Lansing (AP)—Of Michigan's veterans of the Civil War, waiting to hear that the Stars and Stripes have been carried to victory again on the battle field, only 14 are left to mark this year's Memorial Day.

Thirteen survivors of one of the bloodiest wars in history have died since last Memorial Day.

On May 30, a nation engaged in another great war will pause to honor the lads, many of them only 15 years old who fought eight decades ago to preserve the union.

Not many years ago Memorial Day was the occasion for great turnouts of men in well-preserved blue uniforms, marching again to some of the nation's greatest war songs. In 1944 their deeds will be marked mostly in memory, for only in a few communities will a survivor be present to give living focus to the ceremonies.

Included in the list is James F. Lyon, of Menominee, 100 years old, former resident of Garden, Mich.

Munising News

Alger Draft Call Reduced For June

Munising, May 22—Only those under 26 years of age and a selected number of those over that age will be called for military duty during the first two weeks in June, it was announced today by the Alger county draft board.

While 55 inductees passed physical examinations at Marquette May 4, only a portion of these will be sent to reception centers next month. Some will continue in their jobs in essential war work, the board announced.

MUNISING BRIEFS

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Moote have goe to the Lower Peninsula to visit relatives for a few weeks.

Francis Tiernan, U. S. Army, stationed in Wisconsin, is spending a furlough here.

The Munising Hospital Auxiliary will hold a rummage sale Tuesday and Wednesday in the Legion club.

Kenneth C. Carlson, representative of the Office of Defense Transportation, Green Bay, Wis., will be at the office of the Alger county war price and rationing board Saturday, May 27, to assist truckers and other carriers with transportation problems.

The lighthouse tender Amaranth has completed the setting of navigation aids in the entrance to Munising harbor. Buoys were set to operate in conjunction with range lights in the east and west channels and the red blinker was placed on Trout Point reef near the entrance to the east channel.

Mrs. F. Blunder, Mrs. Joseph Grenier, Mrs. William Buckley and her daughter left for Detroit on Friday after visiting their mother, Mrs. Victor Putvin.

Legal Jenson has been ill for the last few weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Ames were business callers in Escanaba on Friday.

S/Sgt. Lawerence Lafave left Sunday for Moore Field, Texas, after spending two weeks here visiting friends and relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Beaudry and Mrs. Sylvia Hebert left Sunday for Detroit after visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Tussing.

Ford Makes Huge Glider At Iron Mountain Plant

BY ROBERT TURNER

A super glider with plywood wings, which can whisk thirty GI Joes, or their equivalent weight in material, through the air to keep their date with destiny at some disputed barricade, has been developed under the auspices of the Material Command of the Army Air Forces at Wright Field and has gone into production.

The modern magic carpet, officially identified as the CG-13A, is the largest glider in production. Costing about one-tenth the price of a transport 'plane, it will carry bulky equipment which cannot be loaded on transports, and its weight capacity approaches that of some of the heaviest bombers. For instance, it can transport two jeeps, or a 75 mm. howitzer and one jeep complete with their crews and ammunition, or a "prime mover" truck. As a troop transport, it will carry thirty fully-equipped airborne infantrymen, roughly a platoon, in addition to the pilot and the co-pilot.

Redesign of CG-4A

Actually a redesign of the CG-4A, now in combat service, the overall dimensions have not been appreciably increased, but the new design permits a much greater load . . . 30 men as against 15 in the 4A. The principal changes are broader wings to increase lifting power and a wider fuselage. Equipped with landing flaps for rapid take-offs and slow landings, it is designed for a higher towing speed than the 150 miles-per-hour allowed for the 4A, and it requires somewhat more landing space than the 4A which could sit down comfortably on a football field.

A high wing monoplane, the ship weighs approximately 7,500 pounds empty. Its wing spread is 85½ feet and the wings are 10½ feet broad. The overall length is 54 feet of which 6½ feet are taken up by the pilots' compartment in the nose. The cargo section is 23 feet long by 8½ feet wide. The balance of the length is tail.

The wings, floor, and stabilizers are plywood, fabricated of aircraft quality, hardwood veneers. Construction of the wings approaches the strength of those of powered 'planes. The fuselage is cloth stretched over a frame of steel tubing. The CG-13 was designed by the Waco Aircraft Company, Troy, Ohio, and is being manufactured by the NorthWestern Aeronautical Corporation, Minneapolis, and the Ford Motor company, Iron Mountain, Mich.

Two Doors For Troops

Two doors are provided for troops, but the entire nose section hinges up to permit rapid loading and unloading of heavy equipment. Jeeps or other wheeled equipment roll in and out of the ship on ramps, under their own power. Hydraulic equipment, which also operates the landing flaps, lifts the nose section and folds it back on top of the fuselage. Hydraulic pressure is generated by a hand pump which can be operated while the glider is en route. All the pilot's cable controls run to a single union at the overhead hinge, so that nothing needs to be disconnected or impedes the operation of the nose door.

First test models had wheels which were used only for the take-off and dropped when the ship was in the air, thus lightening the load by 300 pounds. The landing was made on ski-like skids. The production models, however, are equipped with an improved tricycle landing gear which experiments have proved is superior for landing on rough terrain.

Gliders are only used in regions where air superiority has been established. Their purpose is to get troops or supplies to places where other forms of transport are impractical. They are particularly useful in island hopping or in mountainous terrain, although their use is limited by altitude in the latter case. Carrying no oxygen equipment and the occupants sheltered from the cold and wind merely by the cloth covering of the fuselage, they have a definite ceiling above which their use is impractical.

A recent successful and much publicized glider operation was the troop landing in Burma directed by Col. Philip Cochran, prototype of "Flip Corkin" of the Terry and the Pirates cartoon, and involving such news-worthy names as Buddy Lewis, ex-major league ball player, and Jackie Coogan, ex-movie actor.

Expendable Equipment

Gliders are expendable equipment. Once landed, it is not planned to get them away again. However, their usefulness is not over at the landing: they can readily be converted to command posts, first aid posts, or other shelter purposes.

The CG-13 is usually towed by the C-46, 47, or 54, sometimes by the Douglas B-23, which ships may also carry cargo and troops. One powered 'plane tows one glider.

The glider can be picked up on the fly by the tow 'plane which swoops low to hook the 350-foot tow rope, a 5-16-inch nylon cord, and snaps the glider off the ground. The glider pilot usually keeps his ship a little higher than the towing 'plane to benefit from the air currents formed by the "prop wash."

The tow rope can be released from either the 'plane or the glider, but usually the glider pilot releases it. The tow 'plane, if circumstances permit, circles and drops the rope near the grounded glider.

Once it has cast loose, the pilot has to put the heavily laden glider on terra firma pretty quickly. It can't be kept soaring aloft indefinitely like sports model sail 'planes.

The glider pilot and the co-pilot sit behind a plexi-glass section in the nose. They have all the controls and navigation instruments of a powered 'plane, except the throttle. There is no radio, but the glider pilots do have interphone connection with the towing pilot.

The CG-13 is not intended for parachute work. The airborne infantry are not equipped with 'chutes, but are in full battle kit ready for action the instant the glider "sits down." Compensation for lack of 'chutes is the fact that there are no motors to be shot out nor gasoline tanks to blaze.

RAILWAY MEN GET TRAINING

Switchmen, Firemen And Brakemen Badly Needed

Completion of plans to train hundreds of railroad workers in Chicago for critical jobs—switchmen, firemen and brakemen — was announced jointly by the regional directors of the Railroad Retirement Board, and the Office of Defense Transportation. The General Managers Association, representing all railroads entering Chicago, is sponsoring the training program.

According to R. T. Taylor, regional RRB director, there is an immediate need in the Chicago area for more than 900 workers in the occupations designated for training. Training classes, to open May 22, will run from one to two weeks, Taylor explained. Courses for potential railroad employes will continue until all labor needs are filled.

Upon completion of training, the graduate may choose the railroad company where he wishes to work. Subsistence, at the rate of $5 a day, will be paid trainees during the training period, Taylor continued.

Traineers, when employed, will be eligible for participation in seniority rights, retirement benefits, unemployment insurance, and other rights accorded regular railroad employes.

Soap was used as legal tender in some Mexican cities in the early 19th century.

Veterans Affairs Meeting Wednesday

The Office of Veterans Affairs will hold a meeting in Escanaba high school at 1:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, one of a series of pre-organization meetings being held in the state.

The meeting here will be attended by representatives of Veterans Affairs organizations from Delta, Menominee, Schoolcraft and Marquette counties.

State officials who will attend the meeting are Elmer J. Hanna, executive assistant to Governor Kelly; Lt. Col. Philip C. Pack, acting director of the office of terans affairs; Maj. Garnet J. Burlingame, field representative; Wesley E. Thomas, chairman of the state clearing house committee; and Carl M. Horn, of the state board of control for vocational education.
